

ABSTRACT

This invention provides for, inter alia, a multipack comprising at least two different bags, wherein the bags are arranged in a predetermined sequence and are joined together in a single block. The inventive multipacks provide for, for example, a simplified method for the transdermal administration of therapeutic agents such as hormones to a patient in need thereof.